Disqualifications (cont.)

- If candidates are in doubt about whether they are disqualified, they must do everything they can to check they are not disqualified before submitting their nomination papers.
- Candidates must be sure they are not disqualified as they will be asked to sign one of the required nomination papers to confirm they are not disqualified.
- It is a criminal offence to make a false statement on nomination papers as to the qualification for being elected, so if candidates are in any doubt, they should contact their employer, consult the legislation or, if necessary, take their own independent legal advice.
- The Returning Officer will not be able to confirm whether or not candidates are disqualified.

Absent voting - campaigners

- Campaigners must never handle anyone else's postal voting documents (e.g. to hand deliver them).
- The term 'postal voting document' covers a postal ballot paper, a postal voting statement, envelopes for returning postal voting documents, and an envelope containing a postal ballot pack.
- There are two exemptions:
 - Campaigners are permitted to handle the postal voting documents of close relatives or someone for whom they provide regular care.
 - Campaigners are permitted to handle postal voting documents if that is included in the duties of a job or role they hold, and the handling is consistent with those duties (e.g. a postal worker).
- The definition of a campaigner is provided on the next page.
- If you would like to hand deliver a postal vote (e.g. for a close relative), or you are advising an elector about hand delivering a postal vote, please refer to pages 38-39.

Absent voting – who is a campaigner?

A campaigner is:

- a candidate at the election
- an election agent
- employed by the candidate (for the purposes of the candidate's activities at the election)
- a member of a registered political party who is carrying out activity to promote a particular outcome at the election

Voter Identification

- Voters in this election will need to provide a form of accepted photo ID if they wish to vote in person at a polling station.
- Common forms of accepted photo ID include:
 - a UK, EEA, or Commonwealth passport (including an Irish Passport Card)
 - a UK or EEA photocard driving licence
 - a proof of age card bearing a PASS hologram
 - a blue badge.
- Out-of-date documents can be used so long as the photograph is still a good likeness.
- If a voter fails to present a form of accepted photo ID they will not be issued with a ballot paper.
- Proxies voting at the polling station will need to show their own photo ID (not the photo ID of the person for whom they are voting).

Council of the
Isles of Scilly

Electoral
Commission

Voter identification (cont.)

- Voters should be encouraged to check whether they have one of the forms of accepted photo ID well in advance of the election

Campaigning

- Do use imprints on all your campaign material, including digital material (see pp. 33-35).
- Don't display campaign material on any council property.
- Don't produce material that looks like a poll card.
- Don't pay people to display your adverts (unless they display adverts as part of their normal business).
- Don't handle any postal voting documents you are not entitled to (see pp. 28-29).
- Don't observe electors completing their postal vote.
- Don't encourage electors to appoint you (or another campaigner) as a proxy.

- You are allowed to put your messages to voters on polling day, including public spaces outside polling stations.

Further guidance may be found in the 'Campaigning' section of the Electoral Commission guidance for candidates and agents (see p. 44).

Please also refer to the Code of Conduct for Campaigners on the Electoral Commission website (see p. 45).

Council of the

Campaigning – imprints on printed materials

- During the ‘regulated period’, all printed election materials (e.g. leaflets and posters) must include an imprint with the following details:
 - The name and address of the printer,
 - The name and address of the promoter, and
 - The name and address of anyone on whose behalf the material is being published (if they are not the promoter).
- The ‘regulated period’ begins on the day after you officially become a candidate and ends on polling day. Please see page 25 for details of when you officially become a candidate.
- You must use an address where you can be contacted. This can be a home, office or business address.
- If you print campaign material at home instead of using a printing company, you must still include details about who printed it and where in the imprint.
- Before the ‘regulated period’, imprints are not legally required on printed campaigning materials – but it is good practice to include one.
- If you need additional guidance or examples of how to correctly include print imprints, please refer to the Electoral Commission guidance on printed imprints (see p. 45) or reach out to the Electoral Commission at pef@electoralcommission.org.uk for more tailored assistance.

Council of the
Isles of Scilly

The Electoral
Commission

Campaigning – imprints on digital materials

- Under the Elections Act 2022, imprints are also required on certain digital material.
- There are two categories where digital imprints are required:
 - 1. Paid adverts: any paid adverts which are political material require an imprint. Whenever possible, imprints on paid adverts should form part of the material itself.
 - 2. Unpaid content (known as organic material): some people (including future candidates/candidates) must include a digital imprint on any organic digital election material they publish. For future candidates/candidates, at least some of your digital content is likely to fall under this category. To make sure your imprint is accessible:
 - You can add an imprint directly to each piece of digital content you publish.
 - Alternatively you could include the imprint on your social media profile or other digital channels where you share election material. The imprint should be easily accessible—no more than one click away—from any of your election-related content.

Council of the
Isles of Scilly

Commission

Campaigning – imprints on digital materials (cont.)

- A digital imprint on either a paid advert or organic material must include the name and address of:
 - the promoter
 - any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)
- As with print imprints, you must use an address where you can be contacted. This can be a home, office or business address.
- Unlike with print imprints, digital imprint rules apply at all times, irrespective of the candidate ‘regulated period’.
- If you need additional guidance or examples of how to correctly include digital imprints, please refer to the Electoral Commission guidance on digital imprints (see p. 45) or reach out to the Electoral Commission at pef@electoralcommission.org.uk for more tailored assistance.

The Electoral Commission

- A spending return must be submitted for each candidate:
 - by Wed 7 May for uncontested islands
 - by Fri 6 Jun for contested islands.
- You must include invoices or receipts for any payments of £20 or over.
- A template for the return will be sent to all candidates after the close of nominations on Wed 2 Apr.
- You need to submit a return even if you did not spend any money.
- Failure to submit a return is a criminal offence enforceable by the police.
- If you are elected, failure to submit a return would also result in your being barred from sitting and voting as an elected member (until the return had been submitted).
- For the avoidance of any doubt, no spending will be reimbursed. The rules simply restrict how much can be spent.
- Returns are made available for public inspection for two years.
- Samples of returns may be reviewed by the Electoral Commission.
