I cannot think of a better use for some unproductive land at the eastern end of St Martins.

Having been an annual visitor to St Martins for the last twelve years I have come to appreciate the spirit of enterprise of many of the Islanders.

The erection of Staff Accommodation is essential; as with any agricultural/horticultural business one needs to be "on hand" for any untoward circumstances. Also, the "commute to work" will be carbon neutral.

The possibility of accommodation in a Shepherd's hut for a holiday on St Martins is enthralling and should not be denied to existing and potential visitors to the Island.

Yours sincerely

D Wallace (Mr)
