Dear Sir,

I wish to give my full support to food vans trading at Holgates Green.

In the light of the recent decision by the council to locate the Museum in the Town Hall and remove the food trading area at the back, it seems essential that the council finds a suitable trading area within the town for all these food vans to trade from in the future.

Holgates Green is the obvious and probably only place. Holgates Green was bequeathed to the local council for the benefit of the local community not just to provide a view and somewhere to sit.

These food vans provide a vital service to visitors and locals alike. But especially the visitors, who without, the economy of these islands would collapse. I say this as person who was born and bred in these islands.
