My Family and I are frequent visitors to Guernsey, not The Isles of Scilly so I cannot speak about the specific Holgates Green area.

However, knowing how in demand a food facility can be, along with the benefits to the local economy and residents, I see that all of the objections, full and concise as a great number of them are, they fail to take into account what the actual positives are, seeing as it has been in operation without the many negatives that have suggested.

I also feel very sure that Lily and Martyn, or any other providers of such a service, would go out of their way to ensure they provide it with care, professionalism and enthusiasm.

Going back to Guernsey, the demise in the Tourism Industry there since 2008/9 and the subsequent lack of related businesses, has and still is, extremely depressing to witness, I can only hope that Scilly does not go the same way, because it makes the whole place depressing!

Kind regards, Stuart
